INTRODUCTION

We are committed to protecting and respecting your privacy. This Privacy Policy (“Policy”) will help you understand how we collect, use, and protect any personal information we collect from you, or that you provide to us, either directly or through our trusted partners. Please read this Policy carefully to understand our treatment and use of personal information.

This Policy applies to our processing of personal information about you, our customers, our potential customers, and visitors to our website. If you are an employee or contractor of Munich Re or its affiliates, or if you are applying to be, please refer to Munich Re’s Staff Privacy Notice for information on how we process your personal information.

In the context of this Policy, “processing” means any activity relating to personal information, including, by way of example, collection, storage, use, consultation, disclosure, sharing and transmission for the purposes described below.

In essence, we collect and process personal information necessary to issue you an insurance policy (like your name, address, telephone number, payment information), to assist you if you need to file a claim, or to provide you with information on our products or special offers. We are also required to collect and process certain information to meet legal and regulatory requirements (for example, to verify your identity). While we share your information with our business partners, including our affiliates, we do not sell your data.

You may have certain rights with respect to this personal information as well, so we encourage you to read this Policy carefully, and to contact us if you have any questions.

IDENTIFICATION OF THE CONTROLLER

For purposes of this Policy, American Digital Title Insurance Company is the controller of personal information we collect from you. We partner with companies (our “Clients”) and may collect information about you from them. Our Clients include, but are not limited to, insurance companies, insurance agencies, insurance producers, claims management entities, insurance service providers, law firms, consultants, translators, and others. For information on how to contact our Clients and their specific practices, you may use the information found in the “Contact us” section below.

As controllers, we make decisions about how and why we process personal information about you and, because of this, we are responsible for making sure it is used in accordance with applicable data protection laws.
What types of personal information do we collect, where do we get it from, and why?

We will typically collect personal information directly from you or from our business partners. We may also collect personal information about you through your interactions with our information technology resources. We will also create records of personal information about you in the course of providing services or products to you, either directly or through our business partners. We may also collect personal information about you from third-parties, including government agencies and third-parties who provide services to us.

In all cases, we will collect personal information about you in accordance with the principles outlined in this Policy and applicable local law.

You should be aware that our “lawful basis” for processing personal information about you may be impacted by the legal requirements in the country you in which you reside. As such, outside of the European Economic Area (“EEA”) and the United Kingdom (“U.K.”), we may at times rely on consent to process personal information about you, whereas within the EEA and the U.K. we will seldom rely on consent as the lawful basis for processing personal information about you, except as indicated below.

The following table provides more detailed information on the information we collect and why:

Use of Cookies, Data Collection Technologies, Data Analytics and Your Choices

Cookies and Online Data Collection Technologies. Cookies are pieces of information stored on your device through your web browser. Some cookies allow us to recognize your device and to collect information such as internet browser type, time spent on our Sites, pages visited and other activity and usage data (“Statistical / Range Measurement cookies”). We may use other online data collection technologies such a pixel tags, web beacons and clear GIFs which are embedded within our Sites to collect information about your use of our Sites and in HTML-formatted email messages to track when emails are viewed and forwarded and email response rates. We may also use the information for security purposes, to facilitate navigation, support security and performance of our Sites, manage content or personalize your experience while using our Sites.

Data Analytics. We only use a Statistical / Range Measurement cookie or other online data collection technology, and disclose information to our website data analytics service provider Adobe Analytics that is not traceable to your IP address or linked to your other personal information, to perform statistical analyses of use of our Sites if you provide your prior, affirmative authorization. To learn more about the use of data collection technologies by Adobe for analytics and to exercise choice regarding those technologies, please visit the Adobe Analytics opt-out page.

Your Choices. By default, the Statistics / Range Measurement cookie on our Site is disabled. When you first arrive on our website, you are presented with a banner of your Cookie Choices, which provides an explanation of how we use a Statistics / Range Measurement cookie, and you can change the default settings for the cookie if you wish to enable it.

You can opt out of receiving email marketing communications from us by using the “unsubscribe” link in any marketing email we send you. If you opt out of receiving marketing messages, we may still send you non-marketing communications regarding the services we provide to you.

Server log data

The information that your browser automatically sends us is collected automatically and saved in server log files. They contain:

- browser type and version;
- operating system used;
- referrer URL (the URL that the user comes from);
- host name (network name) of the accessing computer;
- time of server request.
American Digital Title Insurance Company

This data is not used to identify individual people. We do not merge this data with other data sources. We reserve the right to review the information subsequently, and report it to authorities (such as the police or public prosecutor’s office), if there are concrete indications that our internet presence is being used illegally (for example, a hacking attack on our network).

Who do we share your personal information with, and why?

We may disclose your personal information to our Clients and to service providers for the purposes set out above. For example, using service providers may be necessary for the administration and maintenance of our IT systems. We may also transfer information, including your personal information, to third parties necessary to fulfill the purposes set out above, such as underwriting your risk or assisting in providing services to you that you requested. We require our services providers to provide assurances regarding the protections they will provide for any personal information transferred to them, and their compliance with our security requirements and any applicable international data transfer restrictions.

In certain circumstances, we share or are obliged to share your personal information with third parties for the purposes described above and in accordance with applicable data protection legislation.

These third parties include:

- regulatory authorities;
- our auditors and legal advisors;
- relevant industry self-regulatory bodies; and
- others, where it is permitted by law, or where we have your consent.

We do not disclose your personal information to nonaffiliated third parties for those third parties’ direct marketing purposes, nor do we sell your personal information. If you would like information about opting out of other discretionary sharing of your personal information with third parties please contact us (see “Contact us” section below).

We may share your information with our corporate affiliates (e.g., our parent company, sister companies, subsidiaries, joint ventures, or other companies under common ownership or control of our ultimate parent company). This sharing is done so that these affiliates can provide services to us and to our Clients, and may be necessary to provide you with services, products, or information you have requested or expressed an interest in.

Your information may be transferred to another country for processing. Consistent with our Policy, we will seek consent for the transfer or rely on another lawful basis if that is required under applicable law with respect to that transfer. Those other bases may include: where the relevant regulator has determined that the country to which the data will be transferred provides an adequate level or legal protection for personal information, where an approved legal mechanism is in place to affect such transfers, or where you have provided your consent. For any transfers of personal information from the EEA to the U.S. or from the U.K. to the U.S., we take additional steps in line with applicable data protection legislation. We have put in place adequate safeguards with respect to the protection of your privacy, fundamental rights and freedoms, and the exercise of your rights; e.g., we have in place binding corporate rules to facilitate transfers of personal information to and among Munich Re entities worldwide in compliance with EEA and U.K. data protection laws.

If you would like to see a copy of any relevant provisions, please contact us (see “Contact us” section below).

Where do we keep your personal information and how long do we keep it?

We store personal information about you on computer systems operated by or under the supervision of American Digital Title Insurance Company or our affiliates or service providers and/or at our facilities. Our primary data center is located in Oregon. We retain the personal information we collect only as reasonably necessary for the purposes described in this Policy or otherwise disclosed to you at the time of collection. We will retain certain personal information for as long as it is necessary pursuant to our records retention guidelines. Our records retention guidelines are based on our legal or business needs including but not limited to the following criteria: legal and regulatory obligations and requirements; contractual requirements owed to third parties; operational, fiscal, administrative or historical value to business operations; the duration of our business relationship with you, your employer or another related entity; the possibility of future complaints; whether the record is part of an insurance or reinsurance transaction or claim file; audits; investigations or litigation or the likelihood of these; the possibility of future insurance or reinsurance claim activity; whether the documentation is needed for processing of financial records; statutes of limitations; health and safety requirements; tax requirements; personnel requirements; corporate governance requirements; and record-keeping requirements.

How is my personal information secured?

We have appropriate measures in place to prevent personal information from being accidentally lost, used, or accessed in an unauthorized way. We limit access to personal information to those who have a business need for such access. Those individuals who process personal information on our, our affiliates, or our Clients’ behalf, may do so only in an authorized manner. They are also subject to a duty of confidentiality. We have policies in place that regulate how American Digital Title Insurance Company employees and contractors must handle data, including personal information about you. We limit access to our premises and to our computer networks, and take appropriate steps to safeguard against unauthorized access to such premises and networks. We have procedures in place to manage any suspected data security breach and will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected data security breach consistent with legal requirements.

Your Rights

Depending upon where you live, or depending on your jurisdiction, you may have certain rights, briefly summarized below, under applicable data protection legislation in that country or state. Please note, you may not have access to all of these rights, and only those relevant in your jurisdiction may apply.

Where our processing of your personal information is based on your consent, you have the right
You may withdraw your consent at any time. If you do decide to withdraw your consent we will stop processing your personal information for that purpose, unless there is another lawful basis we need to rely on – in which case, we will let you know. Your withdrawal of your consent won’t impact any of our processing up to that point.

Your rights may include (as relevant):

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Your right</th>
<th>What does it mean?</th>
<th>Conditions to exercise?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Right of access</td>
<td>Subject to certain conditions, you are entitled to have access to your personal information which we hold (this is more commonly known as submitting a “data subject access request”).</td>
<td>We must be able to verify your identity. Your request may not affect the rights and freedoms of others, e.g., privacy and confidentiality rights of other customers. Data solely retained for data backup purposes is principally excluded.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Right of data portability</td>
<td>Subject to certain conditions, you may be entitled to receive the data that you have provided to us and that is processed by us by automated means, in a commonly-used machine readable format.</td>
<td>Data protection legislation does not necessarily establish a general right to data portability.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>In the EEA and the U.K., we must first be able to verify your identity. This right only applies if the processing is based on your consent or on our contract with you and when the processing is carried</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rights in relation to inaccurate personal or incomplete data</td>
<td>You may challenge the accuracy or completeness of personal information which we process about you. If it is found that personal information is inaccurate, you are entitled to have the inaccurate data removed, corrected, or completed, as appropriate.</td>
<td>This right only applies to personal information about you. When exercising this right, please be as specific as possible.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Right to object to or restrict our data processing</td>
<td>Subject to certain conditions, you have the right to object to or ask us to restrict the processing of personal information about you.</td>
<td>This right applies only if the processing of personal information about you is explicitly based on our so-called “legitimate interests” (see “basis of processing” above). Objections must be based on grounds relating to your particular situation. They must not be generic so that we can demonstrate that there are still lawful grounds for us to process your personal information.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Right to have personal information erased</td>
<td>Subject to certain conditions, you are entitled, on certain grounds, to have your personal information erased (also known as the “right to be forgotten”); e.g., where you think that the information we are processing is inaccurate, or the processing is unlawful.</td>
<td>There are various lawful reasons why we may not be in a position to erase personal information about you. This may apply: (i) where we have to comply with a legal obligation, (ii) in case of exercising or defending legal claims, or (iii) where retention periods apply by law or our statutes.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Right to withdrawal</td>
<td>You have the right to withdraw your consent to any processing for which you have previously given that consent.</td>
<td>If you withdraw your consent, this will only take effect for the future.</td>

Children and minors

We do not knowingly collect personal information directly from individuals under 17 years of age. Our services are not intended for individuals under 17 years of age. No one under 17 years of age should submit or post personal information through our services. We may collect personal information regarding individuals under 17 years of age from their parents or legal guardians, but only as necessary to provide our products and services. We urge parents and legal guardians to spend time online with their children and to participate in and monitor the online activities of their children.

Your right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority

Without prejudice to any other administrative or judicial remedy you might have, you may have the right under data protection legislation in your country (where applicable) to lodge a complaint with the relevant data protection supervisory authority in your country if you consider that we have infringed applicable data protection legislation when processing personal information about you. This means the country where you are habitually resident, where you work, or where the alleged infringement took place.

Changes to this information

We reserve the right to change this Privacy Policy at any time in our sole discretion. If we make changes, we will post the revised policy here, so that you can see what information we gather, how we might use that information, and in what circumstances we may disclose it. By continuing to use our services after notice is provided, you accept and agree to this Privacy Policy as modified.

ADDITIONAL PRIVACY STATEMENT FOR CALIFORNIA RESIDENTS

This section supplements our Privacy Statement and provides specific information for residents of California (“consumers” in this section), and is intended to satisfy the California Consumer Privacy Act of 2018 (“CCPA”), as amended by the California Privacy Rights Act of 2020 (collectively, referred to as “CPRA”). The CPRA requires that we provide certain information to California consumers about how we handle your Personal Information that we have collected, whether online or offline. Under the CPRA, “Personal Information” is any information that identifies, relates to, describes, is reasonably capable of being associated with, or could reasonably be linked, directly or indirectly, with a particular California resident or household, including the categories of Personal Information identified in a table below to the extent they identify, relate to, describe, are reasonably capable of being associated with, or could be reasonably linked, directly or indirectly, with a particular consumer or household.

This section of our Privacy Statement applies to www.americandigitaltitle.com and other websites or applications that link to this Privacy Statement (the “Services”) and offline activities where California residents are directed to this section of our Privacy Statement. It does not apply to any third party websites or applications that you may access via the Services, which are governed by the privacy policies and terms of use that appear on those sites and applications.

If you are a California resident and would like to exercise your rights under the CPRA, please contact us using one of the methods below:

Our CPRA Notice at Collection is found below.

When We Are Acting as a Service Provider

In some circumstances, we act as a service provider under the CPRA and collect and use Personal Information on behalf of another unaffiliated company. Where your Personal Information is processed by us when acting as a service provider, the other company’s privacy policy will apply, and requests to exercise CPRA rights should be submitted directly to that company. In other circumstances, we act as a service provider for one of our own affiliated companies, and in that situation this section of the Policy will apply. If you make a request to exercise CPRA rights to us where we are acting as a service provider under the CPRA, we may be required to disclose your request to the company for which we are acting as a service provider.

Personal Information Not Covered by the CPRA

For purposes of this Additional Privacy Statement for California residents, the following Personal Information is not covered by the CPRA and does not include:

- Publicly information lawfully made available from government records.
- De-identified or aggregated consumer information.
- Information excluded from the CPRA’s scope, like:
  - health or medical information covered by the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA) and the California Confidentiality of Medical Information Act (CMIA) or clinical trial data;
  - Personal Information covered by certain sector-specific privacy laws, including the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FRCA), the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (GLBA) or California Financial Information Privacy Act (FIPA), and the Driver's Privacy Protection Act of 1994.

CALIFORNIA NOTICE AT COLLECTION

Categories of Personal Information Collected, Disclosed, Sources and Whether Sold or Shared

The type of information we collect from you depends on how you interact with us. The table below lists the categories of Personal Information that we have collected from California residents and have disclosed to others for a business purpose in the preceding twelve (12) months, the categories of sources of Personal Information from which the Personal Information is collected, and whether we sell or share each collected category of Personal Information. Business and Commercial Purposes for Which Personal Information is Collected and Used

The categories of Personal Information described above are collected and may be used and disclosed for the following business or commercial purposes:

- to provide you with, renew or modify products and services;
- to provide you with the information and documents you request and for other customer service purposes;
- to process claims and other legal actions;
- to provide you with information about our websites, mobile applications, or online services that link to our online Privacy Statement or required notices;
- to carry out our obligations and enforce our rights arising from any contracts entered into between you and us, including for billing, collections and payments;
- to deliver marketing communications or promotional materials that may be of interest to you and to assist us in determining relevant advertising;
- for advertising and marketing purposes, as well as underwriting and claims assessment and actuarial purposes, we may share your information with analytics service providers;
- to improve, enhance, and maintain the quality of services we provide and the usefulness of our websites, mobile applications and online services;
- to customize your experience and to analyze use of our websites, mobile applications and online services;
- to anonymize and aggregate data and reports to assess, develop and improve our products and services and for other analytics and research purposes;
- to comply with applicable laws;
- to respond to law enforcement requests, court orders or regulations, subpoenas, search warrants, other legal processes, or to perform other reporting obligations, as required by applicable law;
- to perform research, testing and product development and demonstrations;
- to prevent and detect fraudulent, malicious, deceptive, infringements of our policies and contracts and other potential misuse of or illegal activity relating to our products, services and assets;
- to carry out actuarial analysis and develop our actuarial and pricing models;
- to assist our affiliates in their everyday business purposes;
- to provide training or organize events;
- to investigate privacy, security or employment-related incidents;
- to refer you to our third-party partners as part of a referral program;
to conduct financial, tax and accounting audits, and audits and assessments of our business operations or security and financial controls;
- to plan, engage in due diligence for, and implement commercial transactions;
- for employment-related purposes including but not limited to recruiting, hiring, onboarding, performance reviews and staffing decisions; human resource management services; administration of employee benefits, compensation and expenses; maintenance of contact information; conducting healthcare-related services; and provide alerts and notices;
- to evaluate or conduct a merger, acquisition, restructuring, reorganization, divestiture, dissolution or other sale or transfer of some or all of our assets as a going concern or as part of bankruptcy, liquidation or similar proceeding;
